Mr. Dewitt Tells Of Attempts To Place Burden On County

Attempts of New York City Legislators to Have Reservoir Property Made Tax Free Recounted by Mr. Dewitt, Who Served in Legislature During Some of the Attempts.

To the People of Ulster County:— I had not expected or intended to enter personally in this campaign in any way, shape or manner, until I read the article, presumably from the pen of Mr. Browning, the Democratic nominee for member of assembly, in the Kingston Daily Leader of October 28, 1933, in which he states "I have had a careful investigation conducted and this investigation has failed to reveal any such bill having been voted upon in the assembly." He refers to Philip Elting's reference to New York city introducing bills to exempt its property in the Ashokan reservoir section from taxation.

I happen to have had the honor to represent the First District of the county of Ulster in the New York State Assembly during the years 1914, 1915 and 1916. In the year 1914 the city of New York, through one of its representatives, a Tammany Hall representative, introduced a bill in the New York State Assembly to exempt the city of New York only from taxation on all its property in Ulster county.

Fortunately said bill in said year was referred to the committee on taxation, which in that year was presided over by the late Hon. Abram P. LeFevre of New Paltz, who represented the Second District of Ulster county, and in due course said bill was duly killed in committee and never came on the floor of the assembly for a vote.

In the year 1915 a bill was introduced in the state assembly by no less a personage than the Hon. Alfred E. Smith himself, to exempt from taxation not only all of the property of the city of New York, used for water purposes, outside of its corporate limits, but also all of the property of any other municipality of the state of New York used for water purposes, outside of its corporate limits. In other words this was New York city getting fox, could not get it through without bringing in all the other cities of the state.

This bill was referred to the committee on "Affairs of Cities", which committee was loaded with New York city men. In due course said bill, as expected, was reported out of said committee and came upon the floor of the Assembly for a vote. Thereupon I, being present to represent the interests of Ulster county, moved to recommit said bill to the committee on Taxation for a further hearing. Notwithstanding Mr. Smith's request that I withdraw my motion or permit debate, I did not do so, and the bill was, on a slow roll call vote, recommitted to the committee on Taxation, where it was eventually killed.

That is the reason why Mr. Browning failed to find that any said bill had been voted upon on the floor of the Assembly. We never let them get there, that was our job, representing Ulster county. Mr. Browning failed to find, perhaps unintentionally and perhaps intentionally, where there was a vote upon the floor of the Assembly to recommit such a bill as above set forth. However, if he makes another "careful investigation" he will find it in the Assembly record.

He also failed to state whether or not his "careful investigation" disclosed the introduction of any such bill or bills. The record will disclose that such bills were introduced for several years. Are you to trust a man who can not look up the records better than that? Remember a "careful investigation", as he says.

I wish the people of Ulster county to understand that the statements made by Philip Elting are based upon the record and upon our statements to him. He may not be a saint, but let me assure you he is no liar, nor does he handle the truth carelessly.

1934 Auto Licenses On Sale After Dec. 17

The motor vehicle bureau has received notice that Commissioner Harnett intends to begin the sale of 1934 registration plates on December 18, with the exception of omnibus, dealer and motorcycle registrations, which will go on sale December 1.

The reason for this is that 1933 plates in all except the above mentioned groups will be good until January 1, 1934.

Attention is called to the fact that in issuing plates distinctive numbers under 100 must be issued out of numeric sequence, but that all numbers over 100 must be issued in strict numeric sequence.

MISSING POUKKEPSIE MAN THOUGHT TO BE NEAR HERE

The police department has been requested to locate Frank E. Davis, 55, of 7 Hazmerster avenue, Poukepsie, who left his home there on October 27 for a walk and failed to return home. He is thought to be in the vicinity of Kingston. He is 5 feet 10 inches in height and weighs 170 pounds. He has grey hair, a light mustache and wears glasses.

MUST SHARE RESPONSIBILITY.

With almost an unlimited amount of money at its disposal, the record of the Emergency Work Relief Board is one of projects badly planned, poorly organized, and wastefully executed.

Mr. Flanagan must assume his share of the responsibility for this.

In addition to direct state grants we have enrolled 134 boys in Civilian Conservation Corps. Each month an allotment of $25 is mailed direct to the parents of these boys, thus reducing the cost of relief in the city in the approximate amount of $20,000. This without cost to the city except for transportation to point of enrollment.

Manual labor involved on these projects totals 48,800 man days.

Snow Removal. This necessary expenditure, ordinarily a part of the Board of Public Works program, was handled during the past winter by the Work Relief Bureau. The refunds on labor for this project from the T. E. R. A. totaled $4,951.51 represents a direct saving of that amount to the city.

Office Force. All employees of the Work and Home Relief offices have been approved by the T. E. R. A.

Moving Offices. The item of expense for moving the Work Relief Office from the Municipal Building, where it had outgrown the one room available, to the building on Smith avenue now occupied by the Great Bull Market, and finally centralizing the Work and Home Relief Bureaus in the old armory. This included carpenter labor and material for partitioning of office space in the Smith avenue building and repairing doors and locks in the old armory. The statutory 50 per cent refund was received on the labor item of this project.

Clothing Bureau. The operation of this bureau has been of considerable value to the welfare of the city. The extent of its operations has been published from time to time in the local press.

Compensation Insurance. The nature of the employment and the inexperience of many of the workers recommend the placing of compensation insurance with a responsible insurance carrier rather than by any plan of self insurance.

Judge Crouch Only State Official To Be Voted in Tuesday

Former Kingston Attorney, Endorsed by Four Leading Parties, Will Seek Re-election as Associate Judge of Court of Appeals—Youngest Member in Point of Service.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 1 (AP).—Only one state official—an associate judge of the Court of Appeals—will be voted upon in the election next Tuesday.

Judge Leonard C. Crouch, who was appointed to the state's high court by former Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, is endorsed by the Democratic, Republican, Law Preservation and New York City Fusion parties.

His only opponents for the office are Darwin J. Meserole, Socialist, and Dominick Filanti, Communist. The seven Court of Appeals Judges are elected for terms of 14 years. The salary is $22,000, except for the chief judge, who gets $22,500.

Judge Crouch, youngest member in point of service, is 67. When former Chief Judge Benjamin N. Cardozo resigned in March, 1932, Judge Cuthbert W. Pound was appointed Chief Judge in his place. Governor Roosevelt then selected Judge Crouch, an appellate division justice, to take Judge Pound's place as associate judge.

In recent years the major political parties have managed to agree on the same Court of Appeals candidates. This came about through a desire by both parties to keep politics out of the high court.

Judge Crouch was born at Kingston, studied at Cornell and Syracuse and was admitted to the bar in 1891. He began practice at Kingston.

He moved to Syracuse in 1912, and was appointed to the supreme court twenty years ago. He served until 1927, when he was designated to the appellate division, fourth department.

Gold Takes New Jump Here and in England

Up Again Today to $32.26, a New 14 Cent High—London Bullion Quotation From $31.05 to $31.52—Margin of Domestic Price Reduced on World Market.

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP).—A jump in the price of gold both here and abroad today accompanied President Roosevelt's preparations for quick application of his plan intended to lift commodity prices by purchasing the yellow metal on European markets.

The administration advanced its fixed price for R. F. C. purchases of newly mined domestic gold to $32.26, 14 cents above yesterday and a new high.

Meanwhile, the London bullion quotations increased from $31.05 yesterday to $31.52 today, both figures translated into dollars at the day's opening rate of exchange.

Thus, while the domestic price yesterday stood $1.07 higher than the world's price, the margin today was reduced to 74 cents.

A part of the shrinkage was due to weakness of the dollar against the pound. It declined as low as $4.79 today from $4.75 at yesterday's opening.

While officials evinced a determination to go ahead with the gold purchases as quickly as the necessary arrangements could be made, they were watching, nevertheless, for official indication of Great Britain's reaction to the plan, involving, as it does, dealings in foreign exchange.

The London government had been told that the program was dictated entirely by domestic conditions and was part of the president's general program for raising prices here.

Under no circumstances, it was said, could it be construed as an unfriendly gesture aimed at undermining the pound or weakening Britain's position in the world of commerce.

Dairylea Truck Ran Away Down the Hill

This morning one of the Dairylea trucks, loaded with milk, which was parked on the Broadway hill at Abel street, suddenly ran away down the hill when the brakes, in some manner, became released. The truck ran as far as the Strand and Broadway where it crashed into the rear of the Packard automobile of Dr. Frank Eastman, which was parked in front of the Freeman building on Broadway. The doctor's car was badly damaged. The Dairylea's League truck was also damaged and milk dew in all directions from bottles broken in the crash. As the truck struck the physician's car the latter car crashed into the rear of the car of Harold Steeger, an employee of the Freeman, damaging Steeger's car also.

Deer Jumps Through Window. Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 1 (AP).—A young deer, believed driven into the Buffalo by the steady blazing of pleasant hunters' guns, jumped through the plate glass front of a vacant store near the edge of the city this morning. It required a dozen men and a fire net to corral the doe, which will be turned loose in Allegheny State Park as soon as some slight cuts are healed.

"Politics" Declares Frank B. Matthews

Says Entire Fault Found With Work Relief Board Is of a Purely Political Nature and Is Unfair To Taxpayers, Unemployed and to the Recovery of Prosperity.

Editor, Kingston Daily Freeman, Kingston, New York.

Dear Sir:

As a rule, I pay very little attention to criticism of any boards of the city department at this time of the year, since politics is the main reason for the criticism.

It is very evident that the entire fault found with the work relief board, which is not a city board, is of a purely political nature and as such is unfair both to the taxpayers of the city of Kingston, the unemployed and to the recovery of prosperity.

In my humble opinion it is similar to refusing to support the National Recovery Act at this time.

The best minds of America decided that work relief during this depression was an absolute necessity. Believing this, I accepted an appointment to the work relief board in my own city. I considered this an absolute duty as did every member of the board with whom I have served.

Every member of this board gave as much of his time as was possible and necessary, no matter what cost to his own business, yet every member of this board was in my opinion a successful business man of Kingston.

This year we are asked again by both political parties and by our nation and state administration to vote for a sixty million dollar bond issue for work relief and undoubtedly it will be granted because it is necessary to help restore prosperity and take care of, in a decent way our needy.

The direct criticism of the work relief board has been the building of the Boulevard, namely that it cost too much. In another issue of your paper, the work relief board under their signatures have published facts and figures which show that the cost of the Boulevard was most reasonable under the circumstances. Therefore, I will not again quote figures.

I have for a long time been a Republican, and have supported no candidate up to now in this election but I do feel that if the only criticism of Mr. Frank Flanagan is his activity on the work relief board of the city, which is all that I have observed, he surely is fitted to be Mayor of the City of Kingston.

I also desire to call to the attention of the citizens of the city of Kingston the fact that at least $30,000.00 out of $55,029.02 was spent for labor.

The business of the work relief committee is not road-building. If it were, we probably would, as all road builders do, in order to make a profit, employ very little labor and that would be skilled labor, and the greater part would be steamshovels and other machinery. I desire to acquaint the people with the fact that white-collared men such as clerks, stenographers, book-keepers and others who have never held a pick or shovel were employed on this project.

Let me ask a pertinent question. Suppose Mr. Flanagan, Mr. Walker, Mr. Heiselman and Mr. Mann had been reduced to the necessity as many of our good citizens were in this depression of seeking work relief employment on the Boulevard at $3.00 per day. What return would the taxpayers in state or city have received? How much of that $3.00 per day would they have earned provided they used pick and shovel?

In conclusion I only wish to say that during the coming winter at least, work relief must be carried on in accordance with the recovery program of the nation and state and I feel that the present relief committee from its experience and membership knows how and when to spend the taxpayers' money.

I say this with one of the largest taxpayers of the city of Kingston.

FRANK B. MATTHEWS.

FIREMEN BREAK INTO HOUSE AND FIND MURDERED WOMAN

Rockport, Mass., Nov. 1 (AP).—Firemen broke into the burning home of Mrs. Augusta Johnson, 55, today and found the body of Mrs. Johnson on a bed. Police said the woman appeared to have been beaten to death and her home set afire.

Dr. Ira H. Hall, medical examiner, said a preliminary examination of the body indicated that Mrs. Johnson, whose husband died a year ago, had been beaten on the back of the head with a sharp instrument.

Mrs. Johnson went to a church hall on social last night and was accompanied home by friends at 10:30.

Neighbors saw the Johnson cottage home burning and called firemen. When the firemen broke into the house they found the body. It had been burned badly.

MAN WITHOUT FEET SAID TO HAVE ESCAPED IN CAR

Geneseo, N. Y., Nov. 1 (AP).—Just how Paul Bass, 26, recovering from last night's accident in which he lost both feet, managed to get to his garage and drive his car away from a mystery today for licensees, one of the trio who slugged him with a pistol butt.

Some time last night, clad in a last night's clothing, Bass left his home and drove to his garage. A search of the neighborhood by his father and neighbors failed to show any trace of him.

Search for Three As Brooks Kidnapers

Michigan Man Suffering From Shock and Head Wound—Robbed Office of Securities and Jewelry Amounting to $48,000.

Marshall, Mich., Nov. 1 (AP).—Federal and local authorities today turned to Louis E. Brooks, millionaire manufacturer, for a first hand account of his kidnaping Tuesday, two men and a woman who beat him, forced him to open a safe in his office and then fled with loot estimated at $15,000, after releasing him on a lonely road.

H. E. Hall, United States Department of Justice agent, was cooperating with local authorities in the search for the kidnapers today.

The officers were unable to question Brooks regarding the kidnaping last night because of his physical condition. He was found on his farm near Marshall suffering from shock and a head wound inflicted by one of the trio who slugged him with a pistol butt.

Prosecutor William J. Kearney last night said that it had been determined that Brooks' kidnapers robbed his office safe of $35,000 in securities and $12,000 worth of family jewelry.

MANAGING MONEY

A New Job For The New Deal

NO. 4—ALTERNATIVES TO THE 'ROOSEVELT DOLLAR'

(What avenues of money management are open to the administration in its search for national recovery? This article, fourth and last of a series, discusses them.)

By RADER WINGET

New York, Oct. 31.—Four distinct plans for price restoration through currency management stand ready at the call of the President. They are in addition to the present managed currency policy which is based on creation of a domestic gold market and the buying and selling of gold in world markets.

Under the Thomas amendment to the agricultural relief bill, the President is empowered:

1.—To direct the Federal Reserve System to buy $2,000,000,000 in government securities from the treasury.

2.—To issue up to $2,000,000,000 in "greenbacks."

3.—To substitute bimetalism for the gold standard through recoinage of silver.

4.—To reduce the gold content of the dollar by as much as 50 per cent.

No indication has been given whether he ever will exercise his options.

He has said he would seek to restore price levels, adding, "If we can not do this one way we will do it another. Do we will."

Credit Vs. Greenbacks.

Purchase by the Federal Reserve of government securities in the sum of $2,000,000,000 would bring the country to a credit inflation point which some have figured would be

Chrysanthemums at Burgevin Greenhouse

The wonderful exhibition of flowering chrysanthemums in the show windows of Valentia Burgevin's, 120 corner of Fair and Main streets, is only a small part of the chrysanthemum show that may be seen at the Burgevin conservatories on the Pearl street extension.

It is well worth taking part of an afternoon off to visit the conservatories at this time, for green house after green house is now filled with ranks upon ranks of tall, full bloomed plants, each crowned with a glory of bloom of many colors, or smaller and more "homey" plants, many of them with flowers, little and big.

One entire house is devoted to these latter potted "Mums," that are full of orange, yellow, white, copper and other colored pom-poms and buds that will be a source of joy in a home for days to come.

More special chrysanthemums among the smaller varieties are "Titan Beauty," whose petals "lock" are rightly named in their bronzy red hues; "Bronze Buttons," "Leon Dot," creamy pink flowers; "Little Dot," a tiny white ball with a crimson center, and hosts of others.

After a stroll through the houses where the smaller chrysanthemums are, like a walk through fairyland, to come suddenly into one of the houses where the blooms are some six feet high is being transported instantly into the land of giants.

There are hundreds of tall, stately rich green leafed mammoth chrysanthemums in a profusion that is almost bewildering. These beauties are in all states of blooming, from bud to great towed heads of curling or feathery petals. There are the coppery William Berta, the old standard, "Yellow Eaton" and "Golden Queen," that are miniature suns; the snow-white and exceedingly beautiful "Betsy Ross" blooms; the russet and gold "Detroit News" varieties; a new and handsome deep maroon bloom given the name of "Lucifer," the sunset hued "S. W. Stevens," with the exquisite pink of the "Wells Late" just showing color, and hordes of others.

There are a few brand new chrysanthemums this year. "The Ambassador," a new, white firm-textured ball of petals; the "H. E. Kidder," a beautiful yellow and the "Mrs. Taber," rich maroon with yellow center.

On the way from the chrysanthemum greenhouses to other parts of the grounds it was learned that there are over 150,000 square feet under glass cover at the conservatories, and that next year there will be a new project fully opened up in the form of landscaping with the necessary plants for such grounds adornment for sale.

It is also well worth while to visit the carnation houses where some 3,000 plants are beginning to be in their glory offering some 30,000 cuttings. Then there are the fascinating rose greenhouses filled with the queen of flowers in bloom where there are cutting twice a day. The greatest favorite is the Briarcliff, a pink rose of sturdy stem and rich foliage, exquisitely formed and textured bloom with delicious fragrance. In spite of the fact that this article has to do with chrysanthemums, one must just mention the new rose, "Joanna Hill," long stemmed, shading from an old gold on the outer beautifully shaped petals to a rich and almost rose cream color at its heart.

There are many other houses devoted to other varieties of flowers, all very appealing to any flower lover and guests will be welcomed at the conservatories as well as at the shop on Fair street, where one may secure chrysanthemum blooms of rarest beauty right through the Christmas holidays, although these flowers are especially popular as Thanksgiving floral beauties.

KINGSTON, N. Y., NOV. 1, 1933.

THE UNOFFICIAL SPOKESMAN.

In his evident capacity as unofficial spokesman for Mr. Flanagan, former Mayor Palmer Canfield occupies considerable space in The Freeman today with another of his ingenious explanations of some of the things that neither Mr. Flanagan nor any member of the Democratic administration seems to care to explain, except through their official apologist and unofficial, though probably not unauthorized, spokesman. If Mr. Canfield's explanations were as frank and direct as they are frequent, disingenuous and prolix they would be less tedious and might carry some weight with readers possessed of ordinary intelligence. As it is, the matters that Mr. Canfield seeks to explain still remain unexplained, but facts, just the same. For instance, it did cost more than $55,000 to grade a mile of road that Mr. Flanagan's commission estimated would cost $15,000.

THE UNKNOWN, KNOWN.

Harry B. Walker, Republican candidate for mayor, has been engaged in business for himself for 20 years, and in spite of the introduction of highly competitive business in his line, he has continued in business during the present adverse conditions of the past few years, mute evidence that Mr. Walker is well known to a large number of customers. Yet the Democrats say he isn't known.

Mr. Walker was one of the founders and organizers of the Central Business Men's Association. Consequently he must be a well known business man, for he is at present a director of that organization. Still, they babble—"he isn't known."

GRABBING THE SPOILS

Mayor Carey in his speeches when seeking election promised to keep competent men in office. When it came to the election of the Water Board officers it was found that someone who had never had experience with water works problems and was not qualified for work in any of its branches was appointed as superintendent to succeed one who had devoted all his time for the past eight years to the improvement of Kingston's water works system.

Commissioner Matthews in his recent statement says: "This department is making money and you business men can put your O. K. on it."

Who brought it up to its present efficiency? A Republican board under the very able leadership of former President John D. Schoonmaker.

How long can it be kept in this present state with no experienced man in charge? Would any business man do it in his own business? Why let the Democrats get away with such management of one of the principal boards of this city?

The Democratic party at its convention this fall endorsed all acts of the present administration and hence includes the acts of the Democratic-controlled water board.

You, the voters of Kingston, have in your power this year to show

RELIGION AND MEDICINE

There have been many strange stories told about the power of faith in curing diseases. One of the most recent is that of a man who, after being told by a doctor that he was dying, recovered his health after a period of faith.

Religion deals with the emotions which are the most primitive of man's natural reactions. It carries spiritual comfort to the afflicted when human power fails. Some form of religion is necessary to the happiness of mankind.

There is a tendency of the time for a group of individuals, and it is persons who have been educated beyond their intelligence. To understand the value of religion as the universal factor in times of physical or spiritual stress, but to the mass of the people, religion has the same potency that it has had for 2,000 years.

The sick man needs faith, faith in his physician, but there comes a time when faith in a higher power may be necessary to maintain his morale and sustain his emotions.

GOOD TAX COLLECTION

Cincinnati, O., is a hope-inspiring example of efficient and honest city government. Almost alone among the country's large cities, Cincinnati makes the manager form of government work. Now it comes out that Hamilton county, of which Cincinnati is the principal city, has collected 92.35 per cent of its current taxes. The total amount of tax bills was $12,295,483.67. In spite of depression which has increased tax delinquencies all over the country to an appalling extent, Hamilton's collection was $11,434,424.34. Collections through 1928, 1929, 1930 and 1931 were never less than 91 per cent of the amounts billed.

How is this accomplished? In the first place, says the county treasurer, the law is adhered to strictly. The tax books are closed on the date announced. Penalties are promptly imposed. All taxpayers are treated fairly. Suits are filed on behalf of the county to collect delinquent taxes. Confidence in the honesty of officials and the proper handling of the money makes taxpayers willing to pay their bills if they are able to do so. Apparently there is no magic in Hamilton county's success, merely a business-like attitude toward the matter on the part of public and officials.

Outrageous Fortune

RECEIVED BY THE KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN, NOVEMBER 1, 1933.

Chapter 23 MISSING TEETH

WELL, he had lost the teeth. Had he gained anything? He had seen the man's back for a moment as he ran across the platform. The hair was gone, and he certainly hadn't seen anything that he could be sure of recognizing—medium height—medium build—some sort of cap on the head—a suit, not an overcoat.

He thought there was something odd about the man's right shoulder as he ran his shoulder, or his sleeve. He remembered his own left hand grip, that last wrench when the man bit him and pulled free, and the sound of tearing cloth.

He passed between the posts and took the path across the fields again. He was angry and tired, he had a bump on his head, and a bitten wrist. He had had the emeralds in his grasp and had lost them.

A torn coat and a Ledington train were all he had to go upon. They did not provide him with very much encouragement.

He came back to Hale Place dog-tired, missing Caroline by a bare five minutes. He had left the door wide open, and he found it closed. So Caroline had come. He thought she might be there still. He called her name. When there was no reply, he went forward into the kitchen and groped for and lit another of the candles she had brought him. He wanted to wash the blood from his face, and to bathe his bitten wrist.

At the scullery sink he let the tap run and put his head under it. Then he took a look at his wrist. It was a good deal bruised, but the skin was only broken in one place. As he held it under the tap and the smear of blood ran off, he gave a start and caught up the candle in his other hand.

The mark of the bite showed plain on both sides of the wrist. On the under side were six indentations, all close together. But on the top of the wrist there were only four—two on one side and two on the other, and a wide gap between.

Here at last was a real clue. The man who had bitten him had lost the two front teeth in the middle of his upper jaw.

IF YOU cannot go back or go forward, you must just make the best of it and go whatever way you can.

Jim walked back across the fields in the early hours of the morning and took the milk train into Ledington. It reached Ledington at ten minutes to seven, which is a cold, uncomfortable hour to arrive anywhere, but especially when you have no fixed destination and very little money.

He had a cup of tea and a sandwich, and put in time in the waiting room until he could buy a paper. He chose one of the more dramatic dailies, and was immediately confronted by a large picture of Packham Hall and a photograph, described as unique, of Van Berg with the emeralds all across the front of her dress.

It wasn't a very good photograph of Susie, but it was a speaking likeness of the emeralds. Jim wondered whether the burglar would see it, and what he would do if he did see it. If he had a grain of sense, he'd chuck the chain away into the nearest ditch and make himself scarce.

That was assuming that he didn't already know what he had got. But didn't he? What had brought him to Hale Place twice? Would he have come back a second time, and come back to a room which appeared to contain nothing stealable if he hadn't got wind of the emeralds? The emeralds would provide the motive. A room containing nothing but panelling, two china candlesticks, and an immovable four-post bed frankly would not. It became most urgently necessary to find the burglar.

Jim had a pleasant picture of himself asking the forty thousand odd adult inhabitants of Ledington to show him their front teeth. There didn't seem to be any other way of identifying the burglar.

Chapter 23 MISSING TEETH

He left the station at half past eight and walked in the direction of the library. It would not be open until nine o'clock, so he walked down the High Street, through Foster's Row, and round the Market Square.

Jim was passing the statue in Market Square when a girl who had just come down Market Street with a basket on her arm stopped short not a yard away and said "Oh!" in a tone of so much surprise that his attention was attracted.

A moment before, he had not known that there was a girl there, but when she said "Oh!" he saw Min Williams staring at him and recognized her at once. She had on a blue serge coat and skirt and a very neat little dark blue hat which brought out the gold of her hair and the blue of her eyes.

She said "Oh!" again, and her cheeks turned bright pink. It was an embarrassing encounter. There was nothing for it but to make it as ordinary as possible.

He said good morning, asked her why she was out so early, and was about to pass on, when she stopped him.

"ARE you in a hurry?" It was said timidly, hesitatingly. Her color came and went. Only a very hard-hearted person could have admitted to being in a hurry.

Jim said, "Not at all."

"Then if we could just walk round the square—"

They began to walk. When they reached the colonnade which embellishes the west side of the square, however, she turned to him with a look of embarrassed appeal.

"Aren't you coming back?" She was brightly flushed. The effort to speak had brought tears into her eyes.

Jim was rather touched. "I don't think so, Min."

"I'm not one to interfere—but she's very unhappy."

"Nesta?"

She nodded. "I don't think it's on my account."

She nodded again, blinking away a tear.

"What makes you think so?" he said.

Min's eyes reproached him. "You're not been married a month."

"I'm not admitting I'm married at all."

She backed away from him. "You haven't remembered?"

"I haven't remembered marrying Nesta."

"Don't you want to remember?" He gave a short laugh.

"Not that!"

"It's dreadful for her," she said in a soft, distressed way. "I'm so sorry for Nesta I don't know what to do."

"What makes you think she minds, Min?"

"She's so cross," said Min ingenuously. "There isn't nothing right from morning till night."

He got a kind of hard amusement out of that. He wanted Min to go on talking, so he said, "You think she really minds?"

"If it was Tom—" said Min, and turned quite pale.

"Tom's a very lucky young man, and I expect he knows it."

He wanted her to talk, because an idea was shaping itself in his mind. When he had waked up in her house, it was Min who told him he was Jim Riddell. Now if Min had known him—really known him—as Jim Riddell, and as Nesta's husband before the wreck of the Alice Arden, he wouldn't have to believe her, but he would certainly have to take her evidence very seriously into account.

Min blushed. "Oh, I don't know about that," she said.

Someone had turned into the colonnade from Foster's Row. The last thing that Jim wanted was to attract attention. He said, "We'd better walk." And then, as they moved, "Min—I don't know about anything. For instance, I haven't any idea of where I first met you."

Min said "Oh!" in a startled way.

"If I'm Nesta's husband, I'm your brother-in-law."

APHRODITE by PRAXITELES

NOT TO BE BOUGHT FOR A KING'S RANSOM!

THE ancient King Nicodemus once offered to discharge the whole enormous public debt of the city of Candus in return for this statue of Aphrodite, but the Candians refused to sell it! The story goes that Praxiteles carved two figures of Aphrodite, one completely clothed and one nude. The inhabitants of the Greek city of Cos were offered their choice and selected the draped figure, leaving for the Candians the nude Aphrodite, which the Roman writer Pliny called the most famous statue in the world.

Little is known of Praxiteles' life, save that he was the son of a sculptor, Cephisodotus, and the favored lover of Phryne, the beautiful model who probably posed for the famous Aphrodite.

The statue, which was executed about 364 B.C., shows the goddess in the act of entering her bath. The original, like most of Praxiteles' famous works, has perished. The only good copy, a Roman product, is in the Vatican in Rome. The disfiguring metal draperies which now cover the goddess were added by a later hand and were not part of the sublime original.

TOMORROW: THEY VOLUNTEERED TO DIE!

THAT BODY OF YOURS

BY James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

WHY MORE HEART DISEASE

Nearly 90 per cent of the deaths from heart disease occur after the age of 40, and the other 8 to 10 per cent under the age of 40. Heart disease is increasing so rapidly that whereas in 1900 the deaths in New York were 133 per 100,000, the rate in 1925 was 280, that is more than twice as many in less than 30 years.

Now it must be admitted that a large number of people who live to the age of 40 now, would not have lived that long some years ago, but their lives were saved in childhood and prolonged by care, although they are not practically very strong. Despite the fact that they increase the number likely to have heart disease by 40 or later, there is a definite increase in heart and blood vessel ailments.

Dr. O. P. J. Falk, St. Louis, tells us that the most cases of heart disease after 40 are due to a breaking down of the elastic tissue of the blood vessels, and the replacing of this elastic tissue by hard or fibrous tissue.

Many people inherit this tendency to an early breakdown of the lining of the blood vessels and others bring the condition on sooner than it should come, by careless habits, particularly eating or drinking too much.

In addition to these causes Dr. Falk emphasizes the fact that the way most of us think we have to live is all wrong, that is living under a constant "strain" of competition with ourselves and others.

This strain keeps the body and mind tense, and a tensed mind and body means increased rate of heart beat, and a raising of the blood pressure.

"The speed of our highly competitive industrial competition has made us lose entirely the art of quiet relaxation."

How can many cases of these heart ailments be prevented?

If there is a tendency to heart ailments in the family, careful living, avoiding overeating and overweight, should be the first thought.

When the first symptoms of heart disease present themselves—getting out of breath easily—the avoidance of physical and mental strain is absolutely necessary if life is to be prolonged to a fair age.

In all acute ailments of any kind, and particularly of the throat, there should be rest in bed for days afterwards, to give the heart a chance to regain its "reserve" power.

Finally, all of us should learn the "art of relaxing" whenever possible.

POLITICS at Random

By BRYON PRICE
 (Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

FROM the nature of the data on Russia now reposing on President Roosevelt's desk, it seems safe to assume that trade relations will have first consideration in the forthcoming recognition negotiations.

Russian war debt repudiation, private claims and communist propaganda will be mentioned, but, after all, development of reciprocal trade agreements is so much a cardinal policy of the administration that it easily may almost monopolize the discussions.

RUSSIA has a special reason for making some concessions to gain recognition. That reason is worry at Moscow about the operations of Japan along the Manchurian frontier.

Once before, when a somewhat similar situation existed, Russia found a way of making known secretly and indirectly to the Washington government that her feeling was this:

Four great nations—Russia, China, Japan and the United States—were especially interested in the Far East. Japan had recognized Russia, China and the United States had not. So Russia could talk only to Japan, whose activities worried her most.

The overture got nowhere at all, but now sentiment at Washington is somewhat different.

As Germans Reason—

SPEAKING of foreign viewpoints, an authoritative German version of the long-term considerations of the present European situation has just become available in Washington. It goes like this:

Over a long period German statesmen found that whenever the subject of disarmament came up along with it came the French demand for security.

Germany wanted to get that out of the way. At Locarno she promoted the agreement which she still regards as guaranteeing France's eastern frontier. But disarmament did not follow.

Now German statesmen feel they are left no solution except to withdraw from the whole complicated problem and do whatever they can within their own borders to rebuild national spirit and self-sufficiency.

That is a frankly German viewpoint, which many refuse to accept. It is reproduced here because it throws new light on one side of a very interesting controversy.

London Was Listening

THE British delegation in Washington to discuss war debts probably was more interested than anyone else when President Roosevelt, in his Sunday night address to the nation closed the door to immediate international currency stabilization. Such stabilization is much desired by London, which sees no way to a debt agreement unless it knows in what kind of dollars payments are to be made.

Incidentally, the President's decision to establish a gold market started some westerners to thinking about doing the same thing for silver. A government-regulated market for silver was discussed in some administration quarters even before the President made his speech, and action in due course is among the possibilities.

There was no indication Mr. Roosevelt thought his gold plan would stop the western farm strike, which administration reports forecast would not be really serious on a national scale. What was hoped for was that the inference of dollar revaluation would keep conservative and border-line farmers in camp.

Retired from Postal Service After 30 Years

C. Augustus Raschke, who was among the first Kingston letter carriers, retired yesterday after long and efficient service.

C. Augustus Raschke of 29 Sheldahl street, who has been a city letter carrier since the Post Office Department established free delivery in Kingston on May 1, 1885, retired from the postal service Tuesday afternoon, after more than 38 years' continuous service. The vacancy caused by Mr. Raschke's retirement was taken up by the Post Office Department and delivery routes were rearranged so that the city will be served by the remaining 20 carriers.

Mr. Raschke's retirement was made the occasion of a presentation of a handsome smoking set with appointments, including cigars, and two books, by his fellow employees at the Central Post Office. The presentation took place Tuesday afternoon during the time that all the carriers and most of the clerks were assembled in the work room preparatory to the afternoon delivery.

When all the employees were assembled, Postmaster Edward L. Merritt informed Mr. Raschke that it was with regret that everybody in the office realized that this was Mr. Raschke's last day of service in the postal service and that when he came into the office from his afternoon trip he would retire to private life. To the many expressions of commendation and good will for Mr. Raschke which he had heard inside the post office and elsewhere, the postmaster wished to add his own. He had known Mr. Raschke personally during most of his period of service and during all of those years he had every reason to respect him. Mr. Raschke had performed his work well, and when it could be said of any man, as it could of Mr. Raschke, that he had been faithful in his duty and true to his trust, such a statement summed up a man's whole character. The carriers and clerks who had been more intimately associated with Mr. Raschke also had something to say, and they had chosen Henry F. Gronemeyer as their spokesman.

Gronemeyer makes presentation.

On behalf of the carriers and clerks of the office, Carrier Gronemeyer said: "Dear friend Augustus, we greet you. At the very outset, let me say that I should have preferred to have someone older in years of service chosen to perform the duty of addressing you today. Be that as it may, we will not let our ardor be dampened, and in our humble way with our simple words and wishes will be just as sincere.

"Dear friend, you will undoubtedly realize that we are assembled here for a farewell party to you, after your 38 years of service as letter carrier of our city, from which you retire today. We bid you good-bye.

"We are proud to count you one of the pioneer letter carriers of our city. We sincerely believe that you deserve the needed rest after your years of labor. We do not wish to burden your mind with the enumeration of the ups and downs of daily service, in storm and sunshine, but rather let us remind you of the peace of mind afforded us by the knowledge that we have performed our duty to the best of our ability, though not always to the full satisfaction of our mind and wishes.

"We felt we could not let this day pass unnoticed, so we have secured for you this smoking set, with all the necessary appointments, as a token of esteem and good wishes to you. When you see it or use it, may we beg of you to think of us often. In the meantime we will endeavor to perform our daily tasks, as you have done, as best we can, to be deserving of the trust placed in us.

"And now in closing, may the rest of your life be full of sunshine and good health, and the recollection of our friendship be ever new in your mind. We will ever keep you in kind remembrance. What more can I say? We wish you well."

Simply Tried to Do Duty

The spontaneous way in which the presentation was arranged by the committee of carriers and clerks left no doubt of the sincerity of Mr. Raschke's statement that he was completely surprised. He was grateful to those who had uttered words of commendation for him. He simply tried to do his duty conscientiously. Sometimes it had been hard, but he knew what the Government expected of him, and he always had tried to live up to these expectations.

Thirty-eight years was a long time to devote to delivering the mail. Those years represented the best and most useful years of his life. It was a goodly part of one's life to devote to the work of the government, but on the other hand was the question of what the government had done for him. The fact that he was employed by the government regularly had enabled him to marry and raise a family in a home of his own, and there were other benefits still to follow. For every hour's work there had been compensation. He had no complaint against the government.

The 38 years of postal service work had brought many changes in methods and in conditions. Only the man in service for that length of time could realize how many changes had taken place. Some of the changes had been pleasant, while others were not quite so pleasant, but a man should be willing to take the bitter with the sweet. For his associates, he hoped that the future would be bright, that the efforts of the Post Office Department to restore salaries to their former levels would be successful in the near future. For himself, he could say in the words of the Psalmist, "Verily, my lines have fallen in pleasant places," and he trusted that when each of his associates should leave the service they could look back upon their lives in the postal service and apply the Psalmist's words to themselves.

The presentation to Mr. Raschke was arranged by a committee composed of Edwin L. Kolts and J. Watson Wheeler representing the carriers and John N. Purvis, representing the clerks.

The retirement of Mr. Raschke is the third that has occurred at the post office within four months. Letter carrier Charles F. Lebert, who was one of the original force, retired on June 30, and Miss D. Cronie, a clerk, on August 31.

ACTIVITIES AT ALBANY

AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH

The monthly covenant meeting at the Albany Avenue Baptist Church will be held on Thursday evening at 7:30. This is the preparatory service for the communion which will be observed at the service on Sunday morning.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society will be held in the church parlors on Friday afternoon at three o'clock. The hostesses are Mrs. Wesley Waterbury and Mrs. E. B. Rich, and the program is as follows: Devotions, Mrs. W. W. Brady, Jr.; paper, "The Christian Mission in America," The Ever Challenging Gospel, Mrs. Victor Brown; report of association especially around the shoulders.

The blouse whose back is sketched in the illustration at top is of fairly diagonal silk in the dark and which shows the little tie of red and white striped taffeta.

The other blouse is diagonal silk in solid beige.

Miners occupy a big place in the winter Schiaparelli collection, and smart private clients are ordering smartly simple suits with their blouses, nearly all of an individual fabric and often in contrasting color with the skirt. Another feature that signs these Schiaparelli is the use of cleverly placed dots to fit them.

UNOFFICIAL BUT VERBOSE SPOKESMAN SPEAKS AGAIN

October 29th, 1933

Editor Freeman:

"Unfortunately, the relief problem has become a political question this campaign. Under the circumstances the voters are entitled to all the necessary information upon which to base an intelligent conclusion."

The political phase seems to revolve around the Boulevard project although other items have been emphasized. I believe I have been as closely allied to the relief proposition and the unemployed in the city as anyone except the relief officials. As executive chairman of the Workers' Association I have been in constant contact with every angle of the problem. I am answering the Boulevard attacks as criticism upon the unemployed who worked on this project.

The complete picture of the Boulevard project has not been given. Representatives of the unemployed and myself appeared before the Work Relief Board a number of times and urged that this project be taken up as a work relief job before the Board finally decided to do it. It was a Godsend to many of the unemployed, and each dollar spent for labor fed several hungry mouths, and the work given met a real human need and relieved acute distress and suffering in several hundred families in our city.

It is true that a relief job cannot be done as cheaply as a contract job where the employees are selected for their brawn and ability to wield a pick and a shovel. Some of the jobs given relief work had never had a pick or shovel in their hands. Many had previously held white-collar jobs. Some were in their fifties and sixties and unused to hard manual labor. Yet, all of them eagerly grasped the opportunity to work because it meant food for their families.

Irrespective of the relief phase, no analysis of the work and figures has been published. Much publicity has been given to the grading of this street at a cost of $55,000. The fact is that it was much more than a grading job. A large part of the cost of this job was in the re-alignment of the road and the removal of rock. There were many grades and hills that involved much work and considerable cost. Then over 4,000 cubic yards of rock were removed at a cost of about $24,000. In addition over 2,100 feet of trench was excavated for a new water main and about 850 feet of the trench was in rock. Then over 700 feet of the sewer had to be lowered and most of that was in rock. Besides, the macadam surface, taken from the Boulevard was placed upon Greenkill avenue and Wrentham street and broken up, rolled and oiled providing a good surface. It can be readily seen that this project was more than a grading job and that much less than 40 per cent of the $55,000 was expended for grading.

It would seem to me that the surfacing of the road has nothing to do with the question. Through the efforts of one of the members of the local Work Relief Board, the Federal government was persuaded to pay for the resurfacing of the road within the city. This method without cost to our city required the State Department of Public Works to advertise the contract and it was awarded to the lowest bidder at about $48,000. No one has or can claim that this lowest bid was excessive. Yet, someone has figured out that all of the work upon this 1.06 miles of road should have been done for about $32,000 or $34,000 less than the publicly let lowest bid for just the surfacing. This project is one of a meritorious character, and the needy unemployed who were given some necessities of life for themselves and families from the wages received tried to give value received and in my opinion did give value received.

While I am discussing this question let me refer generally to other items. No one would or could claim that the Work Relief has turned out perfectly here or in any relief district in the state. Yet, fairness should prevail and as complete a picture as possible be given. The table of work relief expenditures published conspicuously upon the front page of your paper a week ago did not include many items, such as compensation insurance, the clothing bureau, gardens for the jobless, the pavilion at Hasbrouck Park, the Cornell Park pool, the street work done on North street and Delaware avenue, South Wall street, Wrentham and Wood streets, Washington and Delaware and Roosevelt avenues. While it criticized the cost of the pool at Forsyth Park and alleged it cost twice as much as the estimated cost, it did not set forth that the total cost included the retaining wall on Lucas avenue and 250 feet of concrete sidewalk on Lucas avenue bordering the park and the concrete benches made and placed near the wading pool and elsewhere in the park. Likewise, as an offset to the cost of cutting dead and dangerous trees, the fact was not set forth that 731 loads of sawed wood with a value of about $2,500 was delivered to families in need of fuel. Also, in connection with the operation of the quarry by the Relief Board for several months last winter when it would have been otherwise closed down, the article did not disclose that 3,500 yards of crushed stone of a value of $5,000 were turned out. It was certainly preferable to have relief workers get this money than to get the stone at $2.50 per yard from outside the city. Other items could be similarly mentioned.

I have not only kept in close touch with the relief situation here but in other cities and relief districts of the state. The total relief demands increased 100 per cent in this state from January, 1932, to September, 1932, and another 100 per cent from the latter date to September, 1933. The relief expenditures per capita of population of upstate has averaged about $30 monthly per family. There have been and are now upwards of 2,000 unemployed families in this city. If each family here received $20 per month it would mean a total of $720,000 a year for Kingston. In fact, our work relief has spent much less than the average of other upstate cities. As stated in the article in your paper referred to above, the sum of $382,739.29 was expended here during the past two years. Since June, 1932, this city appropriated only $160,900. It received refunds of $66,000 from the state. Then through the efforts of the local relief board additional direct grants besides the 40 per cent state refunds were given the city by various state agencies and one federal agency in the total sum of $36,000. These monies provided over 60,000 man days of work. The more work relief the less home relief and charity. So, this work made the jobless self-supporting to the extent of nearly $200,000 during the past 16 months.

Personally, I am in favor of a united and centralized relief system for our city. I believe it would function more effectively and efficiently. I believe the Democratic candidate for mayor favors such a plan as a policy of efficiency and economy so that the relief burden upon the taxpayers is minimized as much as possible and at the same time the most adequate relief possible given the jobless. That is one of the reasons why the Taxpayers-Workers Committee favors his election, putting city economics before city politics.

At The Theatres

Today.

Kingston: "Love, Honor and Obey." If you can imagine Zazu Pitts as a scheming young woman who frames a man to sue him for heart balm, and Slim Summerville as a shyster lawyer who represents her you have the idea about this splendid comedy. It is a lively story with many of the best comedy spots offered in any of the pictures of this superb comedy team. Good entertainment.

Orpheum: "Her Firm Mate" and "I Have Lived." The first offers that great comedy team, Slim Summerville and Zazu Pitts. Their antics in this one are funnier than ever and there is a laugh a minute. "I Have Lived" is a modern story with Anita Page in the featured role assisted by Gertrude Astor and Alan Dinehart.

Broadway: "Disgraced." While the plot of this is not so new the acting carries the picture along at a fairly rapid pace and makes it fair entertainment. Helen Twelvetrees as the little mannikin who falls in love with Bruce Cabot, the rich young man, does some of her best acting. William Harrigan, Adrienne Ames and Ken Murray are in the supporting cast with Murray very good. "It's Great to Be Alive." Only one man left alive in a world of women is the theme of this one. Sounds interesting for the man but isn't for the audience. Edna May Oliver and Herbert Mundin help some to keep the story moving.

Tomorrow.

Kingston: Same. Orpheum: "I Love That Man" and "The Warrior's Husband." The first offers Edmund Lowe and Nancy Carroll in a "love never dies" story of a young lady who loves a confidence man. She endeavors to reform him and nearly succeeds when he is double crossed and killed. Both players do quite well with their parts and the picture is entertaining. "The Warrior's Husband" is a satirical production about the ancient Amazons. It offers splendid comedy and Marjorie Rambeau and Elissa Landi are exceptionally good. Good clean comedy.

Broadway: "She Had To Say Yes." A very involved plot that never does get to the climax makes this rather hard to get interested in. Loretta Young as the young cloak and suit model has to entertain Lyle Talbot, a handsome one of town buyer; it's the boss's orders. Good for an evening's light entertainment.

MUSIC RECITAL GIVEN BY NEW PALTZ PUPILS

New Palts, Nov. 1.—Mr. and Mrs. Claude Bequet were present at the October musical recital given by the pupils of Mrs. Mary Moody at her home. They gave violin and cello numbers at the close of the following program. The junior program opened a duet by Betty Bosworth and Mrs. Mary Moody. A piano solo "Two Little Voices," by Wohlfahrt played by Arthur Rhodes. "Month of May" by Behr, by Thelma Rhodes. "Waltz" by Lancelotti, by Harry Zimmerman, Jr. "Lullaby" by Kinross, by Faith Mack. "Pettit Bolero" by Ravenel, by Winifred Nelson. "Nocturne, op. 9, No. 2," Chopin, by Grace Mauterstock. "Fairy Polka," Spindler, by Tommy Pallas. "Le Secret," by Gautier played by Margaret Kevan closed the first half of the evening's program. The second began with a baritone solo, "September," Charlton, sung by Kenneth Hasbrouck. Contralto solo, "Abide With Me," Liddle, sung by Louise Fleury. "The Road to Mandalay," Speaks, bass solo, Albert Dodd. Soprano solo, from "Lucia di Lammermoor" by Donizetti, "Regnars Nel Silenzio," sung by Miss Gertrude Simpson. "Open the Gates of the Temple," by Knapp, tenor solo by Vladimir Moody. The contralto aria from Samson and Delilah by Saint Saens was given by Mrs. S. M. Kevan. The Bequetes followed with their numbers which were greatly enjoyed. Refreshments were served and extra numbers called for.

Jacob Miller is employed at New Palts for the winter.

Mrs. H. Traver entertained guests on Sunday at dinner.

A number in this place attended the hop at Harry Hanson's on Saturday evening.

sum of $382,739.29 was expended here during the past two years. Since June, 1932, this city appropriated only $160,900. It received refunds of $66,000 from the state. Then through the efforts of the local relief board additional direct grants besides the 40 per cent state refunds were given the city by various state agencies and one federal agency in the total sum of $36,000. These monies provided over 60,000 man days of work. The more work relief the less home relief and charity. So, this work made the jobless self-supporting to the extent of nearly $200,000 during the past 16 months.

Personally, I am in favor of a united and centralized relief system for our city. I believe it would function more effectively and efficiently. I believe the Democratic candidate for mayor favors such a plan as a policy of efficiency and economy so that the relief burden upon the taxpayers is minimized as much as possible and at the same time the most adequate relief possible given the jobless. That is one of the reasons why the Taxpayers-Workers Committee favors his election, putting city economics before city politics.

FREEMAN WANT ADS BRING RESULTS!

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 1 (AP).—Stocks had an active market with work to begin the new month today. Trading tapered into extreme dullness and fluctuations for the most part were narrow.

Wheat sagged after early weakness but stocks did not seem disposed to follow it. Bonds improved slightly though they also were too dull to give much indication of a trend. News developments of the day contributed little that might influence sentiment one way or the other and Wall Street was apparently satisfied to hold its position.

In shares, tobacco again reacted a bit, leading issues looking around a point. Metals, however, maintained their upward trend, particularly the silver mining classification. International Silver rose 4 points or so. L. S. Smelting, American Smelting and Cerro de Pasco improved a couple of points and Homestake pushed up more aggressively. Such industrials as U. S. Steel, Case, Allied Chemical, General Electric and General Motors confirmed their changes to fractions, tending toward slight improvement. American Telephone, which has a dividend meeting soon, eased. Wall Street expects no change in the rate of payment.

Oklahoma Oil Well Fired By Explosion

10,000-Barrel Well, 11 Blocks From Oklahoma City Business District—Fire of Unknown Origin—Feared More Fires if Wind Should Shift.

Oklahoma City, Nov. 1 (AP).—An explosion set fire to a 10,000-barrel oil well, the Russell Petroleum Company's No. 1 Reno, 11 blocks from Oklahoma City's business district, today.

The blast, of undetermined origin, tore out the well's connections, loosening a roaring column of oil and gas that shot high into the air and ignited.

No one was injured.

The flames quickly melted the steel derrick and consumed 25,000 barrels of oil in four storage tanks. Dense clouds of smoke billowed over the city from the well.

The explosion occurred at 6:10 a. m. M. L. Stephens, night watchman, said he could not account for it. He escaped from the scene as the wild well caught fire.

Fire Chief George Goff quickly ordered surrounding wells shut down. Six wells are within a 100-yard radius of the fire.

A shift of the wind to the north, Chief Goff said, probably would ignite a battery of tanks belonging to Oils, Inc.

FARMHAND FINDS FARMER DEAD ON GARAGE FLOOR

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 1 (AP).—George H. Cramer, 58, Lafayette farmer, apparently beaten to death with an iron bar, was found on the floor of the garage at his farm home this morning by Samuel George, an Indian farm hand, who had been employed by Cramer last Monday.

George told law officers that he had appeared for work this morning as usual, and, missing Cramer, went to the house to get instructions for the day. Finding the house empty he went to the garage. Cramer apparently had been dead for several hours.

U. S. Policy to Hold In Giving Europeans Initial Parley Move

Will Not Take First Steps in Financing New Disarmament Plans at Geneva, But Will Later Work Helping Hand—Immediate Work of Technical Nature.

Geneva, Nov. 1 (AP).—The United States will stick to its policy of leading Europe more first, it was learned today, in framing new disarmament plans at Geneva.

It is up to the European nations, Ambassador Hugh Wilson believes, to shape the first decisions.

But, added the man named to head the American delegation while Norman H. Davis goes to Washington for conferences, his group is ready to lend a helping hand later on.

While the ambassador to Switzerland, as has been, will steer clear of "political" conversations, political questions must be considered which do not involve the United States in European political entanglements.

Wiggins Tells He Paid Income Taxes

Not Admits Short Selling in Chase National Stock Was to Keep Tax Payments and Keene Family Holdings—Admits Price "Out of Proportion."

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP).—Albert H. Wiggins testified to Senate investigators today that the purpose of his large short sales in Chase National stock through a personal corporation in 1929 was to "postpone" tax payments.

Previously, the retired chairman of the Chase Bank told the Senate banking committee he had paid income taxes totalling $1,045,999 in the last five years.

Replying to questions by Senator Gore (D., Okla.), Wiggins said the short sales were to "produce buying power" and to reduce the family holdings in the stock, which he said were very large at the time.

Vessel Tonnage Is Not Same as Cargo Tonnage

Vessel tonnage should not be confused with cargo tonnage. A cargo-weight ton is 2,240 pounds, while a cargo-measurement ton is 40 cubic feet. A vessel-measurement ton is 100 cubic feet. The carrying capacity of ships is limited by the amount of measurement space available within their holds, and by the amount of weight they can safely carry. This is called register or dead-weight tonnage, respectively.

The five kinds of vessel tonnage are as follows:

Gross register tonnage—The total enclosed space of a vessel, expressed in measurement tons of 100 cubic feet, including engine room, bunker (fuel) spaces, crew quarters, storeroom spaces, cargo spaces, etc.

Net register tonnage—The total enclosed spaces of a vessel available for cargo and passengers, in measurement tons of 100 cubic feet.

Total deadweight—The number of weight tons of 2,240 pounds, consisting of cargo, fuel, stores, supplies and fresh water for the boilers, etc., required to put a vessel down to her marks, her maximum load-line.

Deadweight cargo capacity—The number of weight tons of 2,240 pounds, which a vessel can carry as cargo after deducting the weight of fuel, stores, supplies, and fresh water required for the boilers, etc.

Displacement tonnage—The equivalent of the weight of the water displaced by a vessel fully loaded and ready for sea; it is the largest tonnage dimension of a ship, but is not commercially important.

Black Schipperke Dog Not Unlike Small Fox

In appearance the Schipperke, the dog that is born without a tail, is not unlike a small fox. Its muzzle, head and ears are responsible for this comparison. And, like its wild neighbor, it shows remarkable agility, spirit and quickness. In Belgium, its original home, it is called the "little skipper," for many spend their entire lives on canal boats, riding the boats of rats and guarding the master's property.

Two types are recognized in America, where it has found a place as a household pet; those weighing from ten to eighteen pounds, and the toy, running from six to ten pounds. The coat is pure black and rather coarse. White hairs are considered a defect. It possesses a ruff around the neck that extends down to the front legs.

Although particularly affectionate to those who house and feed it, the Schipperke is a snobbish aristocrat and its indifference, suspicion and disdain of strangers does not encourage attempts to strike up an acquaintance. Being of a jealous disposition, it refuses to tolerate other household pets, especially dogs or cats, and never fails to show its displeasure over their presence on the slightest provocation.

They are rather nervous and high-strung, yet not more so than several other toy breeds. But Schipperke owners can see no other breeds when it comes to dignified bearing, companionship and aristocracy in dogs and they are not far from being right.—Detroit News.

Living Upside Down

One animal habitually lives in an upside-down position—the sloth of South American forests. It feeds on leaves, and by means of strong, curved claws hangs below tree branches. The sloth is the worst walker among animals, but one of the finest climbers. It is so much at home in the trees that it sleeps while inverted. One fish, and one only, will swim in an upside-down position, a catfish of the African swamps. Any other fish found floating inverted is either dying or dead. Our little blue titmouse seems to prefer to feed in an upside-down position, and it may be an advantage to the birds to do so, when in danger of being picked off the trees by a hawk. We have one bird which runs along the underside of a branch while upside down—the tree-haunting little tree-creeper.—London Answers Magazine.

Girl Finds Ancient Well

It was mainly through the bravery of a Sudanese girl named Salome that an ancient well was discovered in Palestine. The Garstang expedition found a hole only large enough to hold the form of a slim woman. Salome volunteered to find what lay below. She was lowered by a rope into the hole and dug along its course for 50 feet. Then she was hauled to the surface and men replaced her at the work. When several large boulders were removed a well nearly 250 feet deep was discovered. In it was 15 feet of water, which was quite potable. The find was at Tell-Fuweir, and experts believe the well was sunk in the time of the Hyksos, a dynasty of Egyptian rulers often called the "Shepherd Kings."

Utica, N. Y., Nov. 1 (AP).—Death today had ended the colorful career of Frank Stirling, 53, soldier, actor, teacher and author. He died here last night after a lingering illness.

After the war he was awarded both the Victoria and the Edward VII medals and was transferred to India where he served a short time. He then went to Australia and went on the stage in Melbourne with J. C. Williamson, with whom he was associated for 11 years.

New Re-employment Angle

The answer of the Art Metal Construction Company of Jamestown to the national labor boards ruling that it must rehire virtually all its striking employees was to reiterate a previous announcement that it would "draw first on employees who were on the payroll prior to June 20." The strike began June 21 and this method of rehiring would not give strikers any jobs until workers previously laid off had been placed. It was said here today that the company's decision would place about 100 men ahead of the strikers.

Mrs. S. M. Niles of High Falls has received a newspaper clipping and letters giving account of the death by shooting of Dr. W. H. Niles, 47, a prominent physician of Kingston, Tenn. Dr. Niles as a boy and young man made his home with Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Niles.

The information received shows that Dr. Niles, with Constable George Clayton and a boy named Burr, held left Benton in a Ford car on the morning of September 21. The doctor was to call on a patient and collect an account at Springtown, Tenn., some 20 miles from Benton in a mountainous section. The party was seen in Springtown, where they bought gasoline. They left driving along a mountain road. Later a shot was heard and persons interested found Dr. Niles lying dead in a pool of blood, a bullet having entered his right side, penetrated his chest and lodged in the back. Clayton and Burr fled, with the car had gone. The next morning Clayton, who was said to have been drinking, was found hiding in a room in a restaurant belonging to a cousin. Clayton was arrested and held on a charge of murder. He and Dr. Niles were said to have been on friendly terms and no motive for the killing could be determined.

Dr. Niles, who is said to have been a man of many friends and highly esteemed, was a World War veteran. He was born at Woodbourne, N. Y., a son of John Lester and Anna M. Thomsen Niles. At the age of five years, following his mother's death, he went to live with Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Niles at High Falls, where he made his home until he graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Atlanta, Ga., in 1913 and located at Tellico Plains, Tenn. As a boy he attended Mt. Hermon school for boys and spent three years at Temple University before going to Atlanta. He is survived by his wife and five children and a sister, Mrs. Walter F. Crandall, of Oneonta, N. Y.

Taxpayers! Voters! Citizens!

READ THE FINANCIAL RECORD OF THE REPUBLICAN CITY ADMINISTRATION FOR 1931!

The Board of Public Works was given About One-Third of General City Tax Monies Raised in 1931.

This Republican Board Expended Its Appropriation and Then Spent Nearly $150,000 More.

THE EXACT OVERDRAFTS WERE:

CURRENT FUND EXCEEDED AND OVER-SPENT	$119,835.51
CAPITAL FUND EXCEEDED AND OVER-SPENT	25,000.00
SPECIAL FUND EXCEEDED AND OVER-SPENT	3,824.90
	$148,660.41

Now Read What Expert Examiners of Municipal Accounts state in reference to the Board of Public Works during the last year of Republican administration.

"During This Year (1931) there seemed to be no restraint upon the department in spending money whether available or not. The appropriation limitations were not regarded seriously. When the funds were exhausted the Common Council assisted by providing more funds by illegally authorizing a temporary loan in anticipation of the tax to be levied in 1932 in the sum of $100,000.00. When the avails of this loan were spent, the department continued incurring indebtedness, being assured that the amount of the deficit would be met by raising an adequate sum in the forthcoming tax levy. Such conduct by public officials is reprehensible. If the business of the department were continued under this policy it would soon endanger the credit of the city."

THE ABOVE ARE NOT WORDS OF A POLITICAL CANDIDATE OR ORATOR. THESE SERIOUS AND SEVERE WORDS WERE MADE BY EXPERT MUNICIPAL ACCOUNTANTS AND AUDITORS AND ARE BASED UPON THE ACTUAL CONDITIONS FOUND BY THEM.

Now, Compare the Record of the Board under Republican administration in 1931

GENERAL BUDGET OF BOARD IN 1931	$320,335.94
OVERSPENT AND DEFICIT AT END OF YEAR	$148,660.41

With the record of the Board under Democratic administration in 1932

GENERAL BUDGET OF BOARD IN 1932	$309,159.55
BALANCE REMAINING AT END OF YEAR	608.00

REMEMBER THE PRESENT CITY ADMINISTRATION IS LIVING WITHIN ITS BUDGET THIS YEAR.

IN ADDITION, THERE WAS A DEFICIT IN THE REPUBLICAN WELFARE BOARD IN 1931 OF $45,479.56. ALSO, FOUR OTHER DEPARTMENTAL FUNDS HAD OVERDRAFTS AT THE CLOSE OF 1931.

THIS IS THE FINANCIAL POLICY THE REPUBLICAN PARTY APPROVES.

THIS IS THE FINANCIAL POLICY THE REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR APPEARS TO APPROVE.

THIS IS THE "BUSINESSLIKE" ADMINISTRATION THE REPUBLICAN PARTY AND CANDIDATES PROMISE THE VOTERS.

DO YOU, VOTERS AND TAXPAYERS, APPROVE THIS POLICY?

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION INSURANCE

What are the facts about City Workmen's Compensation Insurance When the Republican administration completed its term on December 31, 1931, there was set forth on the credit side of the current trial balance of the Board of Public Works this item:

"RESERVE FOR COMPENSATION INSURANCE $26,986.15."

This amount appeared to show a saving or reserve in that account. However, there was no such fund! There were no such moneys! The Board did not have an actual reserve as the books of the board appeared to show!

Read what the accountants who examined and audited the city accounts state about this fund—

"Passing to the credit side of the current trial balance, attention is called to the item 'Reserve for Compensation Insurance $26,986.15.' (See Schedule 10). For several years it has been the policy of the department to assume its own liability for such insurance. In view of this, the cost of all work, whether it be for operation or maintenance or special projects, includes a specific amount based upon labor payroll payments for compensation insurance, the same being charged against the proper appropriations therefor, and credited to reserve for compensation insurance.

"Consequently there ought to be a compensating sum of equal amount of such reserve in the current fund account. And in addition to this amount there ought to be moneys on hand equal to that amount in 'Vouchers Payable' account, in order that outstanding claims, which have been charged against appropriations, may be fully liquidated. At the close of the fiscal year 1931 the current available funds are shown to be $2,952.15, when the requirements of such funds amount to $59,282.62.

"IT IS OBVIOUS THAT THE DEFICIENCY, $56,330.47 HAS ILLEGALLY BEEN DIVERTED AND MISAPPROPRIATED FOR OTHER PURPOSES OF EXPENDITURE."

What would the stockholders of a corporation say if the executive or manager was responsible for a condition such as above stated?

TAXPAYERS, WHAT DO YOU SAY?

VOTERS, WHAT WILL YOU SAY ON NOVEMBER 7th? THIS IS WHAT THE DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR HAS PLEDGED:

"I Pledge myself and all of myself to the job of Mayor. I know it is a difficult job. I am willing to assume it because I earnestly believe that with the co-operation of the people, I can do a good and a real job. I shall give of my time and my energy and my ability unstintingly with the one objective in view of granting to the taxpayers and the rentpayers and the workers and all the people the most economical and efficient administration possible, and I further pledge myself in making appointments to obtain the most qualified and best available persons having in mind the interests of the city at all times."

Taxpayers! Rentpayers! Workers! E. FRANK FLANAGAN
Is Your Candidate For Mayor.

Elect FLANAGAN Mayor!

Harry Studt Stars With High Single At Emerick Alleys

In the Silver Palace League at Homer Emerick's bowling alley, Harry Studt, who learned the game at the boy at Emerick's, and now one of the youngest exponents of the maple cranking art distinguished himself by rolling a high single score of 374 and a triple of 453.

Both of Studt's scores are high for league competition so far this season. Bill Thiel scored a single of 247 in the City League Monday night and Bert Orme spilled the pins for 279 in a free-lance contest at Emerick's recently.

Pressing Studt for the high three honors was Homer Emerick himself, who scored 622, going over the 200 mark in each of three games—241, 213, and 216.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

The Amateur Athletic Union already has begun its annual poll on the Sullivan Memorial Medal, which goes to the "athlete of this country who, by his performance as a competitor and by his example and influence as an amateur, did most to advance the cause of sportsmanship during the year 1932."

This opens up a subject for debate that seems likely to be unusually difficult to settle. Last year, when the prize went to James Aloysius Hirsch, all-around athletic champion, the group of Olympic stars furnished outstanding material for consideration. On the other hand, 1933 has been chiefly notable for its upsets, inconsistencies and newcomers in the main arenas.

Cunningham, Maybe.
Stars of 1932 have faded or passed from the amateur fold. Foreign luminaries in track and tennis dominated their specialties, leaving the homebreds not much to cheer about.

Glenn Cunningham, the great Kansas miler, with a fine record in foot-racing at home as well as abroad over a period of many months of competition, likely will poll a heavy vote in the Sullivan Medal contest, despite the fact he had no opportunity to match strides with the new king of milers, Jack Lovelock of New Zealand.

Lovelock's performance in beating Bill Donohoe of Princeton in 4:07.6 is the outstanding track achievement of the year.

PUNTS and PASSES

(By The Associated Press.)

South Bend, Ind.—Hunk Anderson, Notre Dame coach, was a great guard in his playing days and he still can do pretty well at the job. Trying to teach his linemen some of the finer points of the game, Hunk joined in the practice yesterday and tossed the regulars all around the field. Incidentally he got some of the best results of the season as the players tried to outdo him in charging.

West Point, N. Y.—Two unbeaten and untied football teams will come together when Army and Col. College play here Saturday. But even against somewhat stronger opposition Army's record is the better. In five victories the Cadets have rolled up 130 points to six for the opposition. Coe has scored 88 in six games and allowed its opponents nine.

Bethlehem, Pa.—Moravian College, one of the few colleges which can boast of an undefeated, untied and unscored-on football record, can show another football rarity this season. Moravian has played three games and won them all by 6 to 0 scores.

Ann Arbor, Mich.—After surviving the rigors of football games against such tough opponents as Ohio State and Northwestern, Carl Savage, veteran Michigan guard, has been laid low merely by attending to his studies. Savage turned up yesterday with a badly burned arm, the result of an accident in the chemistry laboratory, and will not be able to practice before Saturday's game with Illinois. He is expected to get into the contest, however.

New York—When the Tulane-Colgate game was scheduled last year, the prospect was for a struggle between two of the nation's outstanding teams but now it looks as if they would have to play second fiddle to another game Saturday. Tulane has been beaten and Colgate tied and the fans—at least as many as can get into the Polo Grounds—are turning toward the Fordham-St. Mary's battle.

Chicago—A great hope has been blasted for Slip Madigan, coach of the St. Mary's football team from California. After watching his kicker in practice here, he began dreaming of a 40-yard field goal that might beat Fordham. Then someone pointed out that the boots weren't going any farther. The field was one used in professional games and the goal posts were on the goal line instead of being ten yards behind as on college fields.

Minneapolis—It looks as if Minnesota would have plenty of support during its game with Northwestern. The original supply of 2,000 tickets was disposed of in short order and only the arrival of another thousand yesterday prevented a shortage of pasteboards among college officials.

Local Democracy Trying to Bring Issues of Campaign. But They Are Not Fooling Anyone says the King Barbers—Democrats Adopt Platform of Promises.

"Have you been to any of the Democratic rallies yet?" asked the customer, as he dropped into the barber's for a chat this morning. "Nope," replied the busy barber. "I have been too busy trying to scrape enough money together to meet the city takes the Democratic administration handed me. Alibi don't interest me at all results I am looking for."

"I see where the Democratic voters are hesitating to spend what they claim are facts and figures," continued the customer.

"So I hear," replied the barber. "But you will notice that they are very careful in not attempting to explain the tax rate or why the Boulevard job, for instance, will cost over $100,000."

"Ishaw," said the customer "you can't expect them to attempt to explain that."

"Not as long as they claim to have given the city a business administration with economy as the watchword," replied the barber with a grin.

"Just what is the Democratic platform this year anyway?" asked the customer.

"A platform of promises," replied the barber crisply. "For to the taxpayer they are promising economy and to the man who wants a job they are promising work."

"Father praiseworthy at that," commented the customer.

"Sure is," agreed the barber, "but we heard those same promises two years ago. You can't fool the people all the time."

CHILDREN GIVE MINSTREL SHOW AT COTTEKILL SCHOOL.

Cottekill, Nov. 1.—Great was the enthusiasm with which the "Dark Town" minstrel was received. The show was given by the higher grades of the Cottekill School and trained by the principal and teacher, Mrs. Edna Kennedy. The boys and girls played their parts well and with pleasure. Their acts were put across smoothly. The large audience filled the entire gymnasium of the school, and all enjoyed a happy evening. The applause the performers received was worthy of the highest paid professional actors, and many acts had to be repeated, so well were they performed.

Binewater, High Falls, Stone Ridge and Marletown were well represented and now that the show is over the kiddies will once more return to their daily routine of school work, and patiently wait until the day arrives on which they are to go on their educational trip, for which this play was given. High compliments are due Mrs. Kennedy. Ice cream was sold. Harry Snyder was called upon to help sell ice cream, which he did at wholesale. L. R. Connor had charge of the admission fees. Miss Ruth Basten, teacher, helped with the make-up and Mrs. Della Rogers recited "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia."

FROM MAINE TO FLORIDA!

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Every Player Penalized

Moundsville, W. Va.—The mere listing of the names of members of this football team sends shudders through opponents. The team: Grapevine (open field runner), Spillball (forward passer), Knockout (guard), Steamshovel (fullback), Snake (quarterback), Mooney (end and pass catcher), Express (halfback), Two Gun (two thirds of a triple threat man), Mingo, Six Months, Daisy, 16-Jewel, Blinker and Battler (who probably will be ousted from the game).

The men are on the West Virginia State Penitentiary team which meets the Moundsville Eagles tonight and the names are actual nicknames.

Peaks vs. Repeats.

Grove City, Pa.—The bells will peal against repeal in Grove City on Election Day, November 7. Every hour from the time the polls open at 7 a. m., until they close at 7 p. m., chimes will ring in connection with a 12-hour anti-repeal prayer service.

Ducky Reward.

Denver—So they shot a coyote and got a duck.

The coyote had been accused of killing scores of chickens and rabbits near the edge of Denver. Police killed the animal while it was invading a chicken coop. A woman whose chicken coop had suffered from the raids promised the officers a duck for their Thanksgiving dinner.

Not a Mahatma.

Charlotte, N. C.—It may be all right in India, but not in Charlotte, Z. W. Whittle was arrested and charged with "indecent exposure" when he joined the down-town Halloween merry-makers, garbed only in a loin-cloth.

A Champ Must Train.

Galesburg, Ill.—A champ must train.

Take Carl Selter for example. He is preparing to defend his state and national titles as a cornhusker, by running a mile before sunrise and before breakfast each morning. He spends the rest of the day husking load after load of corn.

Strong Man.

San Francisco—Along the waterfront they're telling this story about Bill Wardell, 81-year-old character, who died Tuesday.

On the morning of April 18, 1906, he belligerently entered a waterfront saloon and demanded service, threatening to tear the place down. The bartender, looking on the cuff and finding Bill had pay, refused. Bill grabbed the bar and shook. Just then came the city's famous quake. It knocked down the saloon. They said Bill boasted for years he didn't know his own strength.

WEST ESOPUS.

West Esopus, Nov. 1.—Mr. and Mrs. William Johns were very agreeably surprised on Sunday when Mrs. Maggie Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Plev and brother and nephew called. They are cousins of Mrs. Johns and had not met for many years. They lived years ago in West Esopus, now the Van Horen property.

There has been a great number of hunters so far this fall and some were fortunate enough to enjoy grey squirrel potpie. Today the pleasant season opens and no doubt those wily birds are already under cover. The dense woods in this section make an ideal hunting ground.

Mr. and Mrs. George Van Horen of Jamaica called on Mr. and Mrs. Johns recently. Mr. Johns has been
